Franklin County Helps Childcare Providers Step Up To Quality

"Publicity is the very soul of justice" - Jeremy Bentham

Joy Bivens

Franklin County is investing more than $1 million to help childcare providers become or stay star rated through Ohio's Step Up To Quality (SUTQ) and increase parents' awareness of the program. Why? By July 2020 the State of Ohio will require all childcare providers who receive public dollars to be star rated through SUTQ or lose that funding.

A star rating is important because it is a sign that a provider offers a safe, caring, nurturing environment for children and has staff that are qualified to help them develop verbal and social skills to learn and grow—not only for today but also for their future.

"This issue is critical for providers and parents. Parents know that a pro-

Registration for Ohio Business and Career Expo opens Aug. 15

Free event targets minorities, women and disadvantaged job seekers and business owners

Job seekers and business owners are invited to register for the Ohio Business and Career Expo being held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sept. 6 at the Ohio Expo Center's Cardinal Hall, 717 E. 17th Ave., Columbus. Registration for the event opens Aug. 15.

The event is free and open to the public. Parking is $5.

This networking and learning opportunity is geared toward job seekers who are minorities, women, veterans or otherwise socially and economically disadvantaged. Attendees will have the opportunity to connect with employers and procurement officials from the Ohio Department of Administrative Services, Ohio Department of Transportation and other state agencies, as well as the Columbus Regional Airport Authority and more.

The purpose of the expo is to support the efforts of the State of Ohio and its partners to support equal employment opportunities and efforts to expand access to state contracts for small, minority-, women and veteran-owned businesses.

For job seekers, the expo provides the chance to explore career opportunities with nearly 50

Ohio Secretary of State Jon Husted announced 9,652 new entities filed to do business in Ohio last month, an increase of 852 when compared to July 2017.

Ohio is currently on track for 2018 to be another record-breaking year for new business filings. Since January, the Buckeye State has seen 76,130 new businesses file, up 4,151 from the same seven-month period last year.

In 2017, Ohio finished with 117,429 new businesses registering with the Secretary of State's office, surpassing the previous record set in 2016 of 105,009. Last year also marked the eighth consecutive year the state has seen a record number of new business filings. In all, Ohio has seen a rise of 46.3 percent in filings from 2010 to 2017.

vider with a star rating is held to the highest quality standards,” says Joy Bivens, director of Franklin County Job and Family Services. “We all win when children receive high-quality early learning.”

Right now, there more than 700 childcare providers in Franklin County receive Publicly Funded Child Care (PFCC) payments, but only about 24% are star rated. This means that if the 2020 mandate went in place today, approximately 23,000 children would need new childcare providers—and more than 10,000 working parents would need to drop everything to find a star-rated provider to care for them.

The economic impacts of the mandate reach further than that. Many home- and center-based childcare operators are small business owners, who would struggle to support their own families— let alone hire and retain staff—if they are barred from accepting children covered by PFCC. So, the 2020 SUTQ deadline is not just an early childhood education issue—it’s a workforce issue.

Franklin County Commissioners Kevin Boyce, Marilyn Brown and John O’Grady recognized the issues and took action. They instructed the Department of Job and Family Services, under the leadership of Director Bivens, to develop a multi-pronged strategy – from in-depth data analysis to focus groups with parents and providers – to ensure all home and center-based childcare providers are star rated by the 2020 deadline.

“Although we know the importance of high-quality childcare, many of Franklin County’s families still do not have access to it,” says Bivens. “Most children are within one quarter of a mile of a childcare center accepting Publicly Funded Child Care, but most of those are not star rated. African-American children who live in Linden and East Columbus are significantly less likely to receive care from a star rated provider.”

While all childcare providers want the best for their children, they don’t all know how to attain a star rating. As a result, Franklin County is the first county in the state to offer free training to help center- or home-based providers become or stay star rated. Providers can earn up to 32 hours of free Ohio Approved Professional Development.

For more information about the training or how your organization can help this effort go to www.StepUp2StarRating.com.

Got a big tax refund? Use IRS Withholding Calculator to boost take-home pay

If you received a large refund in the past, you may be able to get more money in your paychecks by using the Withholding Calculator.

Due to major changes to the tax law, the IRS encourages taxpayers, including those of you who typically receive big tax refunds, to do a paycheck checkup to make sure you’re have the right amount of tax taken out of your pay.

Changes that could affect refunds include:

- Reduced tax rates and changed tax brackets.
- Eliminated personal exemptions.
- An increased standard deduction.
- Expanded and increased Child Tax Credit.
- A new credit for dependents who can’t be claimed for the Child Tax Credit.
- Some limited or discontinued deductions.

Don’t forget to check your state withholding too.

ment of COMTO’s image. The winning chapter aligns with COMTO’s mission through programs that foster membership growth and retention, professional development, and community outreach. The Columbus Chapter has demonstrated an overall excellence and effectiveness in activities, both nationally and locally. The award was announced at the 2018 National Meeting & Training Conference in Baltimore, Maryland. COMTO’s annual conference brings together industry leaders across all modes of transportation for four days of learning, training and networking.

The Central Ohio Transit Agency (COTA) and the City of Columbus (City) are interested in purchasing a phased deployment of a new application environment for the execution of multimodal transportation known as the Multimodal Trip Planning Application (MMTPA) for end to end (door to door) multimodal trip execution. The MMTPA will make multimodal options easily accessible to all by providing a robust set of transit and alternative transportation options including routes, schedules, booking, and reserving possibilities. The application will allow travelers to request and view multiple trip itineraries and make reservations for shared-use transportation options such as transit, bikesharing, transportation network companies (TNCs) and carsharing. Using the MMTPA, users will be able to compare travel options across modes, plan and pay for their travel based upon current traffic conditions and availability of services.

Through this Request COTA and the City hereby solicits proposals from only those MMTPA solutions vendors that meet the requirements outlined in this RFP. This solution is critical to the Smart Columbus program portfolio and envisioned to be interoperable and be tightly integrated to the Common Payment System (CPS), Central Ohio Transit Authority (COTA) payment backend and the Smart Columbus Operating System (Operating System). Due to the tight integration needed for a fully functioning multimodal ecosystem between the MMTPA and the CPS, they will often be referenced together. Included is an overview of the proposed MMTPA/CPS system including its relationship with data sources, Mobility Providers, and related Smart Columbus projects. A definition of the system including representative operational scenarios is provided in the, "Concept of Operations for the Multimodal Trip Planning Application/Common Payment System (MMTPA/CPS) for the Smart Columbus Demonstration Program". This document is available at the City's SharePoint site and will be posted by 5:00 PM Eastern Time on August 8, 2018. Refer to the following link:

government agencies, state universities and construction trades. Participants will include contractors who work on state and state-assisted construction projects and are interested in further diversifying their workforces. Representatives from construction apprenticeship programs also will be available to discuss opportunities in their fields. In addition, workshops will be offered on application processes, resume writing and interviewing techniques, including a career lab with one-on-one resume, LinkedIn profile and mock interview reviews with HR professionals. A computer lab also will be available for job seekers to start creating a profile on the State of Ohio job posting site, careers.ohio.gov.

For business owners, the expo provides networking opportunities for businesses certified through the Minority Business Enterprise (MBE), Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE), Encouraging Diversity, Growth and Equity (EDGE) or Veteran-Friendly Business Enterprise (VBE) programs, as well as those interested in learning more about becoming certified. In addition to networking opportunities with purchasing officials from more than 45 government agencies, universities and private corporations, workshop topics will include networking, growing your social media presence, financing programs, developing a capability statement and elevator speech, registering to do business with the state and how to respond to a state bid request. The expo is sponsored by the Ohio Department of Administrative Services, Columbus Regional Airport Authority and Ohio Department of Transportation.

OhioMBE Certification 101 at the WBC

Create new business opportunities. Get your business certified

There are several reasons why you should get your business certified:

1. Some entities have purchasing goals. Only certified businesses can participate.
2. Certification adds legitimacy to your business. You have gone through a process that has determined that your business is owned and controlled by a minority, woman or disadvantaged business.
3. Certification can afford you loan and bonding opportunities. The State of Ohio has loan and bonding programs specifically for certified minority owned businesses.
4. Certification can be a marketing tool for your business. You can add your certifications to your marketing materials, business cards, website, etc. Many consumers like doing business with veteran, minority or woman owned businesses.
5. Certification can be used in the private sector. Many companies don't have a certifying program but in an effort to have supplier diversity, will accept the certifications from some governmental agencies.

Nominate a business for an OhioMBE Award

The 2018 OhioMBE Awards are accepting nominations for Top MBE, Top FBE and Top Family Business from Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo, Dayton and Akron/Canton.

The OhioMBE Awards will recognize the state's top small businesses and their advocates during a scholarship luncheon on Thursday, October 25 at the Columbus Zoo and Aquarium Africa Event Center. The preeminent business networking event is attended by small business owners, bankers, elected officials, construction companies, corporations, government representatives and others.

A portion of proceeds benefits the Frank W. Watson Scholarship. The renewable scholarship is presented to students who are pursuing post-secondary education or training opportunities. One scholarship is earmarked for a Columbus East High school student-athlete. To date, there are six Frank W. Watson Scholars.

The nomination form is online at www.OhioMBEAwards.com

The deadline for submitting is Sept. 30.
